

2023/2024 FWEA Biosolids/Residuals Program Excellence Awards

Technical Innovation and Development Category

Applications for the Technical Innovation and Development category will be evaluated on the basis of the significant technological improvements that have been developed and fully proven at the pilot or full-scale operational level.

Applications should include information to justify selection for the award as appropriate for the particular facility/program/project. The use of photos and graphics to aid the review process is encouraged.

Applications Due: February 16, 2024
